

I encourage you to respect the sovereign laws of the state of Indiana regarding my home privacy. The Indiana Telephone privacy law has granted my family the peace I enjoyed as a child and hope to continue providing for my children.

We are all assaulted with non stop marketing messages every time we listen to the radio, watch TV, drive our cars, or attend a sporting event. But those are all activities we choose. At home I also want the right to choose not to be harrassed by marketer's offensive, and aggressive assaults on my privacy. The Indiana privacy law has blocked nearly 100% of these unwanted calls. I couldn't happier with the result.

In every other electronic media, TV, radio, internet, I have the right to choose who and when anyone will come into our home. I demand this same right regarding the phone service I pay for.

The home is the last bastion for the family. Don't usurp our states rights, by forcing a less effective law and opening my home to these unwanted predators.
